

Behind the Books

At the heart of Spice and Spine Books is more than just a story — it's a community of readers, curators, and champions of romance who help shape what you discover here.

I founded Spice and Spine Books because I wanted to share the bold, addictive romances and unforgettable stories that make me fall in love with reading over and over again. Helping readers find their next favourite book is what drives everything we do here.

I'm also incredibly lucky to lean on my amazing Instagram friends — Michaela Ure, Joanne Peel, and Sophie Swatton. Their honesty, passion, and eye for brilliant reads keep me inspired, always pointing me toward the next story I didn't know I needed.

Together, we make sure every book here is chosen with care, excitement, and a true love for the stories we all escape into.

Because behind every great book... is someone who couldn't wait to tell you about it.
